Trainertext Library

Trainertext is text with pictophones above the letters to guide learners to the correct sound. Trainertext is based on 15 years of neuroscience research and will maximise your child's progress in reading.

The library will first present either single words or short phrases, depending on the level of the book. Those words or phrases will then be combined into a full sentence or paragraph, which your child should reread a couple of times until it is fluent. This re-read process will boost fluency and accuracy.

If your child struggles with the contrast of black text on a white background then you can add a colour tint to the book to make it more comfortable to read.

Each week your child's class teacher will set you books which are linked to the phase they are working on in class.

You can find a video tutorial about the Trainertext Library in the Parent Training Zone via the QR code or the following URL:
